

HAMMOND BUSINESS LAW, PC

COOKIE POLICY

Hammond Business Law, PC (“we” or “us”) uses a technology called "cookies" to provide you with, for example, customized information from our website and its webpages (collectively, the "Website"). By agreeing to this Cookies Policy, you consent to the use of cookies by us as described in this Cookies Policy.

In general, cookies are small, often encrypted text files, located in browser directories. They are used by web developers to help users navigate their websites efficiently and perform certain functions. Cookies are an element of data that a website can send to your browser, which may then store it on your system. Cookies allow us to understand who has seen which pages and advertisements, to determine the most popular areas of our Website, and to determine how frequently particular pages are visited. Non-personal information may be collected during visitors' use of the Website and this information may be used by us to measure the number of visitors to the Website. We may use three types of cookies on the Website:

Session cookies – these are temporary cookies that remain in the cookie file of your browser until you close the browser. This type of cookie is automatically placed onto your browser by the server software, but it is not used by our Website.

Analytical cookies – Our Website uses third-party cookies, such as Google Analytics cookies (third party cookies) for the following purposes:

- to record the time of your first, most recent, and current visit to Website,
- to record which page(s) you visit on the Website;
- to record how long you stayed on the Website; and
- to record how you located the Website (e.g., search engine, link, etc.)

We only share the information obtained through the use of Google Analytics with Google. For more information on Google's use of your information, please see Types of Cookies Used by Google. The cookies we use for these purposes do not track your Internet usage after leaving our Website and do not store your personal information. They will not be used in connection with any other information to identify you in any way.

How to Disable Cookies:

In most cases, you can adjust your browser so that your computer does not accept cookies:

1. Go to the heading "Manage Cookies" and click the option you prefer, either stopping cookies being installed, or notifying you of them;

2. From the list provided, click on the program which your computer uses; if this is not shown on the list, click on the "help" heading on the bar at the top of this page, search for information on "cookies" – an explanation of how to delete cookies will appear, then follow the instructions.

Alternatively, you can adjust your browser to tell you when a Website tries to put a cookie on your computer. The process for adjusting your settings with respect to cookies, will depend on the type of internet browser your computer uses.

Disabling Third-Party Cookies

You may opt out of third-party cookies. We only keep cookies for the duration of your visit to our Website, except in the case of cookies which remember you for future visits or where you save your login name.

Your Consent to Cookies

By agreeing to this Cookie Policy, you consent to the use of cookies by us as described above. Cookies do not contain confidential information such as your home address, telephone number or credit card details. We do not exchange cookies with third-party websites or data brokers. If you disable cookies, you may find that certain sections of our Website do not work properly.
